

An American Tourist

An American touring Britain discovered that in every English cathedral he visited there was a golden telephone with a sign next to it, saying £10,000 per call. On querying the price, he was informed it was a direct line to Heaven, and for that price he could talk to God. He next visited Wales, the churches there had the same golden telephones, but with one difference, the signs read (10p) per call, and so he asked the Vicar why the difference in price, in England its £10,000 per call, here its 10p.

The Vicar smiled and answered, you are In Wales now and so it's a local call.

By Gerald Grant
Local Seaside Historian

Seaside Community Association has published this information on this website with permission by the author, for the interest of the local community. Seaside Community Association cannot vouch for the accuracy of this article or validity of the research undertaken. Readers should contact the author direct and examine the source documents in the case of any conflict of information.